Stay Connected Be Productive

Microsoft Exchange Server has traditionally been used by very large corporations to increase productivity and communications. Small businesses, on the other hand, stand to gain from its use, but have not been able to afford setting it up and maintaining it. It is the dominant product in the market of e-mail and collaboration software.

Because e-mails, files, contacts, and calendars have become crucial to the day-to-day operation of all businesses, the employees today want to be able to access them from anywhere and anytime. Large corporations enjoy the benefits of Microsoft Exchange, but SMBs have neither the infrastructure nor capital to give their employees mobile, secure and reliable communication.
